

Is pleased to announce a new

Ph.D. Program in Ethnic Studies

Beginning September 1, 2008, UC Riverside will accept applications for students seeking admission into the Ethnic Studies Ph.D. in the Fall of 2009.

The UCR Ethnic Studies Ph.D. is an autonomous comparative interdisciplinary doctoral program where students can focus on one or more of three graduate areas of specialization:

- (1) Theories of Race and Power,
- (2) Cultural Politics and Production, and
- (3) The State, Law, and Social Transformation.

The comprehensive Ph.D. program prepares students to enter public agencies or the private sector as applied researchers and policy experts, or to pursue careers in academia as researchers and university professors.

GRADUATE FACULTY:

Victoria Bomberry - Native American Literature & Anthropology
Jayna Brown - Black Literature, Culture, & Performance
Edward T. Chang - Asian Americans & Race Relations
Ralph L. Crowder - African American History
Paul Green - Law, Race, & Education
Jodi Kim - Asian American Literature and Culture
Anthony Macias - Chicano History, Music & Popular Culture
Alfredo Mirandé - Law, Race, Class, & Gender
Jennifer R. Nájera - Race & Ethnicity, Chicana Feminism
Armando Navarro - Chicano Politics & Social Movements
Robert C. Perez - Native American History & Culture
Dylan Rodriguez - Critical Prison Studies & Critical Race Studies

For program information email: etstgrad@ucr.edu

For application information: www.graduate.ucr.edu

For Contact: Andrea Gonzales 951.827.1821